

Biography

Jason Diamond Arnold Speaker

Jason Arnold is quickly becoming recognized as one of the most exciting speakers in the new workforce. His passion and energy are contagious, and his authentic investigation into the challenges facing organizations and individuals in today's rapidly changing society is refreshing and inspiring. World-renowned author and speaker Ken Blanchard has called Jason "a powerful voice for his generation" and considers Jason a future leader whose influence and service will reach well beyond workplace issues. Speaking from his heart with enthusiasm and genuine warmth, Jason draws audiences into his messages. He is a storyteller, weaving life's most critical experiences into his stories.

Jason is currently the multimedia specialist for The Ken Blanchard Companies®, an internationally recognized management and leadership training and consulting firm with global headquarters in San Diego, California. His personal mission, extending beyond taking Ken's timeless teachings and philosophies to the emerging workforce of the new economy, is to use the act of storytelling to influence and inspire our postmodern culture into exploring a deeper value of life.

In addition to having a BA in literature and writing from California State University, San Marcos, Jason has a background in film, video, and Internet production that has contributed to his passion for linking people's personal hopes and dreams to a community of vision and overall higher purpose of living. When he is not spending personal time with his family and friends, Jason is passionately pursuing his love for writing and film production. He is currently working on a short business parable about today's new workforce and is active in the independent filmmaking arena. He is also pursuing an MA in comparative literature at California State University, San Marcos.
