Digital Learning Journeys

Six-week targeted experiences that teach different levels of leaders core leadership principles over time.

With the abundance of digital content and delivery options now available, it’s challenging to determine the right approach to develop leaders and individuals in ways that resonate with the needs of the modern workforce—at home, distracted, time-starved, and hungry for meaning.

That’s why Blanchard developed Digital Learning Journeys: solutions that give people practical and essential frameworks to have meaningful and authentic conversations.

Blanchard’s Digital Learning Journeys deliver world-class leadership development experiences, curated for leaders at different levels, in a flexible, scalable, self-paced format. They let you reach learners across time zones and geographies, giving them a unified, consistent learning experience.

Two journeys are available to meet the needs of your workforce: Leader of Self, and Leader of Others. Both learning journeys include time for practicing new skills, reflecting on key points, and reinforcing behaviors as well as opportunities to learn with colleagues during weekly live debrief sessions.

We designed these journeys using the latest findings from neuroscience: attention-generating content that is emotionally and personally relevant, opportunities for learners to discover their own insights, and the use of spaced learning—all powered by Blanchard’s researched and proven models and frameworks.
