Courtney Harrison, a Digital Learning Facilitator at The Ken Blanchard Companies®, is a dynamic speaker, trainer, and coach. Authentic and articulate, she cultivates deep connections and a rich learning environment. She leverages real-world scenarios, insightful questions, and humorous anecdotes to partner with clients and drive the learning home. Courtney is endlessly passionate about promoting the transformative power of SLII®.

Since joining Blanchard in 2006, Courtney distinguished herself in her roles of learning specialist, project manager, and team trainer. During this time, she created and facilitated uLead, Blanchard's internal leadership development curriculum, which offers leadership training and opportunities to high-performing individual contributors. Courtney most recently served as Client Services Manager, where she led a large team for nearly ten years. As a leader, she has earned a reputation of being a strong advocate of her team members, an encouraging and positive mentor, and a true situational leader who was recognized in 2019 with Blanchard's annual One Minute Manager award.

Sparked by a voracious appetite for learning, she earned a dual Bachelor's degree in Industrial and Organizational Psychology and Communication from Azusa Pacific University. She holds an MBA and a Master of Science in leadership from Grand Canyon University as well as a Master of Science in Executive Leadership from University of San Diego.

Courtney lives in San Diego and enjoys cooking, reading, dancing and volunteering with Agape Orphanage in Carrefour, Haiti.
