

MEET OUR EXPERTS

Ron Sacchi

PRAISE

“The depth and breadth of Ron’s knowledge of organizational tools, techniques, and approaches is truly impressive. He’s one of those select few who can look at an organization as a whole, see what improvements are most critical, and then design a practical strategy to get there.”

—CEO

“Ron has a great grasp of organizational dynamics. He has a keen understanding of the impact that leaders have on the culture and performance of the organization and how to assess and develop leaders to improve their impact.”

—CEO

“Ron provided us with competitive intelligence training. He was easy to work with and highly effective. His knowledge of what makes corporate training programs succeed was instrumental to our efforts.”

—Company President

Ron Sacchi is a Consulting Partner for The Ken Blanchard Companies® who has an entertaining and engaging style of training. He creates highly interactive dialogue that allows participants the space to experiment, analyze, and question assumptions, which enhances their learning and insight. He is an energetic thought-leader with a track record of success in all areas of human capital development.

A former operations manager, Ron brings more than 20 years of leadership experience to classroom facilitation and works effectively with all levels, from frontline associates to C-Suite executives. He has trained in many industries, including manufacturing, gaming, ecommerce, finance, engineering, and pharmaceuticals. Specific areas of expertise include leadership development, change management, and organization effectiveness. He is also knowledgeable about new business start-ups and joint ventures and authored the book Design/Build Your Business. Ron is certified in various management and leadership profiling tools.

Ron spent 20 years at Intel in various roles, including factory manager, director of human resources, and Intel University Dean. He also held several human resource positions for high-tech and pharmaceutical companies. Additionally, he has consulted on cultural change, redesigning organizations, and constructing corporate mentoring programs. A dynamic speaker, Ron has presented at several conferences, most notably the Society for Human Resource Management, The American Management Association, and the International Society for Health and Productivity.

Ron holds a bachelor’s degree in biological sciences from University of California, Berkeley, and an MBA from St. Mary’s College of California. Ron enjoys hiking and exploring ethnography and how it shapes culture and group dynamics. He is also First Vice President for the Northern California Chapter of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame, Inc.TM